NL-NMD annual neuromuscular symposium | 12 January 2024

Why fly around the globe to meet NL-NMD researchers?

After last year's successful first edition, in 2024 we will again organize the NL-NMD research symposium prior to the annual symposium Neuromuscular Diseases (Friday January 12th 2024 for NMD clinicians). The NL-NMD research symposium will focus primarily on (pre-clinical) research. This will take place on Thursday January 11th, the day before the annual Neuromuscular Diseases symposium.

The NL-NMD research symposium lasts from 12.30-17.00 hours and the aim is to connect NL-based NMD researchers. Speakers from the Dutch UMCs will showcase their research. In addition, young researchers are offered a platform by means of 'flash poster presentations'. The day will be concluded with drinks and bites.

We look forward to meeting all NL-NMD researchers January 11th in Amsterdam UMC (location VUMC-O2-building)!

NL-NMD annual neuromuscular symposium | 12 January 2024

True to tradition, the Annual Neuromuscular Symposium will take place at the beginning of January (Friday 12 January 2024). This is the day after the (pre-clinical) research symposium, which has its 2nd edition this year (Thursday 11 January 2024) after a successful kick-off last year.

This is the ideal event to gain new knowledge about developments in the field of diagnosis and treatment of neuromuscular diseases and to share your own diagnostic dilemmas with the experts present.

The symposium focuses mainly on best clinical practices, and is intended for (paediatric) neurologists, rehabilitation physicians, clinical geneticists, paediatricians, and of course also residents and nurse specialists in these disciplines.

This year's theme is: "Canaries, chameleons and zebras. Back to basics in recognizing and treating neuromuscular diseases".

We look forward to meeting everyone on January 12, 2024 (location and full program to follow).
